

THE PHILOSOPHY OF J.N. MOHANTY

Editors: Daya Krishna and K.L. Sharma

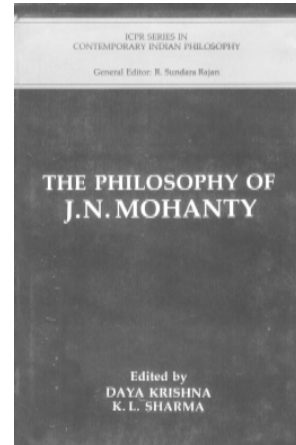

1991

274 pages

Hard Back

ISBN 81-215-0495-8

Rs 170

Jitendranath Mohanty is one of the leading philosophers of the Indian subcontinent. Known equally for his pathbreaking contributions in the field of phenomenology, and insightful undertakings in the field of Indian philosophy, particularly Nyāya, Mohanty has striven not only to extend the frontiers of philosophical thought in new directions, but also to build bridges of understanding between the Anglo-American and the European schools of contemporary philosophy.

The essays in the present volume subject his contributions in various fields of philosophy to a searching examination, which is both sympathetic and critical at the same time. Some of the most fundamental and deep-rooted tensions and dilemmas in the field of phenomenology and Indian philosophy are brought to light in the course of the discussion by such well-known authorities as Karl H. Potter, Bimal K. Matilal, William K. McKenna and R.A. Mall, among others. Mohanty's Reply to many of the criticisms and observations made in the course of these articles will remain of interest to all serious students of phenomenology and Indian philosophy, for a long time to come.